ABOUT YOUR GRADES:
You are entirely responsible for earning grades in this course. If you want an A in this course, earn it. “I tried my best” is not enough to get good grades in college. Don't try. Do!
I will not reply to end-of-semester emails asking for something extra. It is not fair to other students who are doing the hard work needed to succeed in this course. Complaining about grades is no more than whining and does not demonstrate adult behavior.

QUIZ RESETS AND DEADLINE EXTENSIONS ARE NOT POSSIBLE IN THIS COURSE:
REVEL eTextbook quizzes and their deadlines cannot be reset by the instructor. The quizzes cannot be reset by the REVEL eTextbook staff. That means that students are 100% responsible for confirming that they have a properly configured computer, a secure internet connection, and a computer that will not update or restart during the quiz. The student is 100% responsible for following testing instructions provided by the REVEL eTextbook publisher and by DCCCD eCampus. Be sure to log out of the course, clear your browser's cache, and close the browser before taking a quiz. Log into eCampus and click on the link to the REVEL eTextbook immediately before taking quizzes. The student is also responsible for meeting all of the deadline posted for this course, since they cannot be extended.

STUDYING:
Plan your reading, studying, and quiz taking. Look at the number of days between the first class day and the deadlines for the quiz and writing assignment. Figure out how many quizzes you need to complete each day or week. You will be taking several quizzes each week. Don't forget the discussions and writing assignment!

COMPUTER ACCESS:
Computers configured for eCampus are available in the Eastfield College library during their open hours. Visit the library website for information.
