

Katawna L. Caldwell
3737 Motley Drive, Mesquite, TX 75150
972-860-7055
KatawnaCaldwell@dcccd.edu

Education

Walden University, Minneapolis, MN
Pursuing Doctorate of Education (present)

Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX
M.L.S in Women's Literature

Northeastern State University, Tahlequah, OK
B.S. Family Consumer Sciences/Education

Teaching Experience

Eastfield College, Mesquite, TX- August 2007 - Present
Instructor – English 1301, 1302, Early American Literature, and African-American Literature

Agape Outreach Ministries, Inc., Tulsa, OK- May 2006-June 2007
Literacy Program Coordinator & Instructor—Technical Writing

Northeastern State University, Tahlequah, OK- August 1997 -May 2001
Undergraduate English Tutor & Writing Coach

Responsibilities:

Eastfield College, Mesquite, TX- August 2007 - Present
Full-Time Instructor- English Composition I & II; developed African American Literature Course (fall 2010)

Eastfield College, Mesquite, TX- August 2009 - Present
(DCCCD) Visions of Excellence Champion for Eastfield College

Agape Outreach Ministries, Inc., Tulsa, OK- Summer(s) July - August
Offsite Literacy Program Developer (Upper School)

Papers & Presentations

Women Writers of the Harlem Renaissance, February 2007
Presenter at Annual Black History Month Celebration, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX.

The Katrina Monologues: A Tribute to Hurricane Katrina Survivors Part II. November 2007
Performer with Graduate Association of African-American Orators at Southern Methodist University of Texas at Dallas, Dallas, TX.

The Katrina Monologues: A Tribute to Hurricane Katrina Survivors. November 2006
Performer with Graduate Association of African-American Orators at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX.

Interpretation of Langston Hughes' "Theme for English B" March 6, 2006
Paper presented at Literature Symposium, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX.

“Those Who Died Alone.” February 12, 2006

Presenter at Black Love Adaptation, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX.

A Time for Love “The Magic Strength of Need” by J. California Cooper. November 2005

Performer at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX.