

Curriculum Vitae

Kathy Hines
Eastfield College of Dallas County Community College District
3737 Motley Drive, Mesquite, Texas 75150
Sci/PE Office: 972-860-7140; Adjunct Faculty Office: 972-391-1047
KathyHines@dcccd.edu

Education

Texas Woman's University, Denton, Texas
Doctor of Philosophy in Nutrition

University of North Texas, Denton, Texas
M.S. in Chemistry

University of North Texas, Denton, Texas
B.S. in Chemistry

Texas Woman's University, Denton, Texas
B.S. in Dietetics and Institutional Administration

Teaching Experience

Eastfield/Dallas County Community College District, Mesquite, Texas-- June 2008 – Dec 2013
Adjunct Faculty – Nutrition/Biology 1322; Chemistry 1405; Chemistry 1407 Lab only

Preston Ridge/Collin College, Frisco, Texas – September 2008 – Dec 2013
Adjunct Instructor-Chemistry 1405

Texas Woman's University, Denton, Texas – September 2000 – May 2003
Adjunct Faculty – Chem 1013

Texas Woman's University, Denton, Texas – September 2003 – Dec 2007
Graduate Teaching Assistant – NFS 2323, NFS 1301, NFS 3101, NFS 5384 Lab only

Tarrant County College, Hurst, Texas – January 1998 – May 2001
Adjunct Faculty – Chem 1604 (General, Organic, and Biochemistry)

Richland/Dallas County Community College District, Richardson, Texas—September 1999-Dec. 1999
Adjunct Faculty—Chem 1406 (Non-Science)

Preston Ridge/Collin College, Frisco, Texas – September 1997 – Dec 1997
Adjunct Instructor-Chemistry 1405

Publications and Papers

Dissertation (August 2012): INVESTIGATING THE ROLE OF FAMILY AND CONSUMER SCIENCES TEACHERS
IN NUTRITION EDUCATION IN TEXAS SECONDARY SCHOOLS

M.K. Hines and L.J. Theriot (1991). Synthesis and Properties of Cu(Benzoylacetone-Ethanolamine) and Cu(Benzoylacetone-Propanolamine). Synthesis and Reactivity in Inorganic and Metal-Organic Chemistry, 21 (1), 89-97.

Thesis: INORGANIC SYNTHESIS, CHARACTERIZATION, ISOLATION AND MAGNETIC PROPERTIES OF CU (II) AND MN (II) SCHIFF BASE COMPLEXES

January, 2014